

MYP Personal Project Presentation

Now it's time to present your MYP Personal Project! You have completed a lot of work independently and it's time to present your work to your peers and advisor. Please follow the outline below during your presentation. Remember your advisory will use your presentation of your product/outcome and report to determine your Final MYP grade.

- 1. Introduction (1 min max)
  - a. State your name, goal of your project, and global context
  - b. Briefly describe why you chose this project
- 2. Presentation of Product (8 min max)
  - a. Briefly describe the criteria you designed to evaluate your product
  - b. Present your product
    - i. Must include the product's connection to your goal and global context
    - ii. Must include the most interesting feature of your product
- 3. Approaches to Learning (2 min max)
  - a. Choose 1 ATL skill and tell how you used it to complete your project
- 4. Final Reflection (1 min max)
  - a. Briefly tell what you are most proud of or what you would change/ do differently
- 5. Closing (30 sec max)
  - a. Thank your audience (peers) for their attention.

Example

Good morning, my name is Ima Student. The goal for my project was to design a fitness program for teens and the global context I chose was Identities and Relationships. I chose this project because I wanted to learn more about making healthy choices and fitness and helping my friends improve their personal health.

Now I am going to show you the fitness program that I created. My criteria were my program needed to be founded in research, included 7 days of healthy meals, included a 30 day training schedule, and was interesting to teens. My fitness program connected to my global context because I wanted to improve teen health which is connected to how we see ourselves. The most interesting feature is the meal plan. I was able to create 7 days of healthy breakfasts, lunches, dinners, and even snacks. Also, the exercises were easy to do anywhere and anytime because you don't need equipment, like weights.

Throughout this project, I had to use several Approaches to Learning Skills. For this project, I had to really use my self-management skills to finish on time. I used ManageBac to keep up with due dates, but I also used a wall calendar at home to determine when I was going to work on my project and other school work.

I am most proud of my fitness plan. I really think it can help teens feel better about their health. I thought that my fitness plan would only help teens, but now my family uses some of the meals and we exercise together. We all feel great!

I hope you enjoyed my presentation. Thank you!

Other things to remember:

1. Practice your presentation at home- your presentation must be between 10-13 minutes.
2. Write out what you are going to say during your presentation on notecards.
3. Speak clearly during your presentation.
4. Make sure your product is finished and bring it on your presentation day.
5. Check on technology (If you need a computer, talk with your advisor.)
6. This is your time to share your research, your product, and your growth with your peers.
7. Be Proud of your hard work!